

What is the point of Fulcrum?

point of balance, point of movement, point of influence, point of view, point of controversy, point of gospel, bible and church, point of communion

'Thinking evangelicalism' Ruth Gledhill, The Times

'Reflective and faithful transmission of the faith' Michael Poon, Trinity College, Singapore

'The politer sort of evangelical
- I like people who open doors for me' Paul Handley, The Church Times

'There's more than one way to be an evangelical...' Maeve Sherlock, former Charity Chief Executive

'The steadiest and most thoughtful evangelical site in Britain, with a reach of faith and intellect capable of engaging the world as a whole' Ephraim Radner, Wycliffe College, Toronto

'Facilitating a refreshment of the evangelical tradition with a genuine, biblical, sacramental theology and practice as part of our gospel commitment' Tom Wright, Bishop of Durham

www.fulcrum-anglican.org.uk

Registered Charity No. 1102069

fulcrum renewing the evangelical centre

www.fulcrum-anglican.org.uk
read, discuss, pray and donate original articles, daily newswatch, interactive forums, annual conference, reliable news, veritable gateway, virtual library, online journal, detailed analysis, agile in mind, deep in insight, poetry in mission, perceptive in art, specific in science, serious in series, generous in orthodoxy, patient in pressure, delighting in God.

www.fulcrum-anglican.org.uk

substance not surface, holistic not partial, sparkling not still, fun not fundamentalist, encompassing not narrow, resoundingly sound, refreshingly responsive, renewed in the Spirit, capacious, Christ-centred, fast moving, discursive, essential reading, opinion forming, clear thinking, concise writing, more than evangelical but not less, articulately anglican.

fulcrum renewing the evangelical centre